Experienced Professionals Who Get the Job Done Right

Electrical work can be dangerous and work should only be attempted by registered electricians who have the relevant skills and tools to complete the work safely. Being in the electrical industry for 30 years and highly experienced, qualified, fully insured and accredited by NICEIC. All this means you can rely on me to do the work safely, professionally and with care and skill.

NICEIC Approved

I'm an active member of the National Inspection Council for Electrical Installation Contractors. Enrolment with the NICEIC shows that a contractor has not only requested that the standard of their work be assessed against the required standard, but that they have achieved the standard and agree to further annual scrutiny of their work.
